

Prince and princess

Once upon a time, there were a prince and a princess. Prince and princess were in love. They wanted to get married but the ugly and bad witch didn't want that. She was doing everything against their happiness. The witch had a plan and she hoped the plan would be successful. Witch quietly walked into the castle where lovers lived. She kidnapped the princess and took her far away. Prince was very sad and cried for the princess. A few years later, the witch was killed and the princess returned to her prince. Prince said to the princess: „Don't leave me, you're my everything!“ Princess hugged him and soon they got married. After two years they had a baby and and were the happiest in the world. They lived together forever.
